POULTRY AND EGGS

TURKEY RAISING HINTS.

Methods of incubating the eggs and Caring For the Hen.
[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

Turkey hens and chicken hens are ordinarily used to incubate turkey eggs, although incubators are quite generally used where turkeys are raised on a large scale. During the early part of the laying season it often happens that there are on hand a number of eggs that should be set before any of the turkey hens are through laying their first litter and become "broody." In such case and also when it is desired to have the turkey hens lay a second or third litter some of the eggs have to be incubated under chicken hens or in an incubator. About a week before the poults are to hatch SEPARATE SITTING COOP FOR TURKEY HEN.

A sufficient number of turkey hens should be allowed to sit to take all the poults hatched. They can be given a few eggs from the incubator or from under the chicken hens and allowed to hatch the first lot. The turkey eggs or night a newly hatched poult can be slipped under each turkey hen that is brooding they will take them.

Nests for sitting turkey and chicken hens are best made on the ground by following out a little earth, so that the cutter is deep enough to keep the eggs from rolling out of the nest. A thin covering of clean straw or hay can then be used to prevent the eggs from being directly on the ground, and a large roomy coop should be placed over the nest to keep the hen from being disturbed.

When a hen becomes broody and shows that she is in earnest by remaining on her nest for two or three nights she may safely be trusted with the eggs, provided she is allowed to sit in that nest. If she is to be set in another nest, as is usually the case, then she should be removed to the new nest, preferably after dark, given a few nest eggs and shut in to prevent her from returning to the old one. If she sits quietly on the nest eggs she should be taken off on the evening of the following day and the eggs to be incubated placed in the nest. On being freed she will probably return to her old nest. If so she should be carried back and set quietly on the eggs, when she will immediately feel them beneath her and settle down to cover them.

Turkey hens do not ordinarily come off for feed and water more than once every two or three days, but when confined they should be given an opportunity to come off every day. Occasionally a turkey hen does not come off at all, and in such case she should be taken off once a day, as otherwise she will die on the nest.

A dust bath is greatly enjoyed by sitting hens and helps to keep them free from vermin. Whole corn is a good feed, and fresh water and grit should always be accessible.

Live are a great annoyance to sitting hens and are one of the worst enemies of young poults. To prevent their getting a foothold the hen should be dusted thoroughly with some good fine powder before she is placed on the nest, and then both the hen and nest should be similarly treated once a week for the first three weeks of the incubation period. The nesting material should be kept clean, and if the eggs become dirty they should be washed with a soft cloth dipped in lukewarm water.
Just before the poults are to hatch the old nesting material should be replaced with clean straw.

The incubation period of turkey eggs is twenty-eight days.

For Scaly Legs.
If the hen has scaly legs use one part lard and the same amount of coal oil mixed and applied to the legs after the chicks are several days old. Also at the same time rub about one-third of a teaspoonful of lard or vasoline and rub the grease into the heavy feathering between the thighs. Rub the feathers and rub it into the feet ers next the skin.

Hatching Gosso Eggs.
It requires a full month to hatch a gosso egg, and incubation is performed by either a hen or a gosso. A gosso laid by a hen will cover five eggs, and a gosso can take care of as many as fifteen. It is seldom that any of the gossoes are lost, except through negligent or careless handling and sometimes will very young.

"BACK TO SOIL" IN KANSAS CITY

Vacant Lot Gardening Plan Meets With Ready Response.

SCOPE OF THE CAMPAIGN

It is Expected That the Propaganda Will Result in Placing More Than a Thousand Families on Garden Plots Before the Planting Season is Over.
Owners Donate Land.

That acre, high cost of living, is due for a terrible jolt if the present plan of the real estate board of Kansas City, Mo., in the vacant lot gardening campaign are carried through to completion, says Ward C. Gilford in the Town Development Magazine.

There is every reason to believe that this propaganda, which now has the greatest promise of success, will result in placing more than 1,000 families on garden plots before the planting season is over. Already more than 200 have been assigned to vacant property, and the good work is going on.

With the help of the newspapers a degree of enthusiasm has been aroused that is bringing out the gardeners in great numbers and also has aroused property owners to the real merit of the propaganda which has resulted in generous donations of land for gardening purposes.

Land which heretofore has been the repository for cans, trash and ashes or has been permitted to grow up in weeds this year has been turned over under the plow and a little later will shoot forth the first indications of what it is hoped will be a beautiful harvest.
The thing that has made the campaign this year a genuine success is the influence of a strong civic organization behind the movement to back up the demand of the gardeners for the use of the vacant property. And with all the success the plan is not nearly so comprehensive as one that can be carried out for future years. Such a campaign has great possibilities.

Not only has the real estate board been brought into the campaign, but the city of Kansas City has been brought into it, and the city has been chaired in out of town people. Attention pictures have been taken of the starting of the work and will be taken later on as the gardens develop.

The real estate board in this campaign took entirely upon its own shoulders the burden of acting as a clearing house for the gardeners and the property owners. It was the mission of the board to put these two in communication with each other with the ultimate object of placing the gardeners on the vacant lot.

The present high cost of living, of course, helped to bring out the gardeners. It is one of the things that have given added impetus to successful gardening, and many offered to pay rent for the lots, but in no case would the board handle it on this basis.

A call for donations of property to be used for gardening purposes was issued through the press and a circular letter sent to each member of the real estate board. This request brought a surprisingly prompt and bountiful response. Vacant lots in all parts of the city were listed, and the only requirements made by the property owners was that in case of sale or improvement of the property the gardening privilege might be revoked.

The real estate board committee in charge of the propaganda made a general rule in connection with all lots donated for gardening purposes that at least one line of flowers should be planted along the lot line fronting the street. This regulation applied to all lots except boulevard plots, where it was required that ten feet of blue grass must be cultivated from the property line back. At the point where the blue grass ends the customary row of flowers was required.

It is easy to see what a large scope the campaign is taking. The actual assignments being made by the real estate board represent only a small percentage of the real gardening that is being stimulated by the propaganda. Back yards in all parts of the city suddenly are being cleaned up.
Many persons have obtained privately the privilege to garden vacant lots and have started work on them and of hundreds of these the board has no record because the assignments were not cleared through the board office, although the garden was stimulated by the publicity attending the real estate board's work.

To Teach City Managing.
The establishment of a course in city management at Hobart college, in Lo. financed by Powell Evans, chairman of the committee to revise the city charter of Philadelphia, has been announced by President Lyman Powell of Hobart college.

The course will consist of a series of lectures by city managing experts from many parts of the country. Dr. Richard and Greenberg, director of the bureau of municipal research in Philadelphia will go to Hobart in the fall to direct the course.

Anti-Litter Movement.
The civic bureau of the Newark (O.) chamber of commerce will co-operate with city officials in ridding the streets of the unsightly and insular litter in the business districts.

OUR KIND OF A MAN.
By JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.
[Copyright 1887, 1898, by James Whitcomb Riley.]

THE kind of a man for you and me!
He faces the world unflinchingly And smiles, as long as the wrong resists.

With a knuckled faith and force like fists:
He lives the life he is preaching of,
And loves where most is the need of love;
His voice is clear to the deaf man's ears,
And his face sublime through the blind man's tears.

The light shines out where the clouds were dim,
And the widow's prayer goes up for him:
The latch is clicked at the hovel door,
And the sick man sees the sun once more,
And out o'er the barren fields he sees Springing blossoms and waving trees, Feeling as only the dying may.

That God's own servant has come that way, Smoothing the path as it still winds on Through the golden gate where his loved have gone.

The kind of a man for me and you!
However little of worth we do He credits full and abides in trust That time will teach us how more is just.
He walks abroad and he meets all kinds Of querulous and uneasy minds, And, sympathizing, he shares the pain Of the doubts that rack us, heart and brain.

And, knowing this, as we grasp his hand,
We are surely coming to understand!
He looks on sin with pitying eyes—Even as the Lord, since Paradise.
Else, should we read, Though our sins should glow

As scarlet, they shall be white as snow!
And, feeling still, as a grief half dead, That the bad are as good as the good are bad,
He strikes straight out for the right—and he Is the kind of a man for you and me!

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

O, slow to smile and swift to spare, Gentle and merciful and just!

Who, in the fear of God, didst bear
The sword of power, a nation's trust!

In sorrow by thy bier we stand, Amid the awe that hushes all,
And speak the anguish of a land That shook with horror at thy fall.

Thy task is done; the bond are free.
We bear thee to an honored grave, Whose proudest monument shall be "The broken fetters of the slave."

Pure was thy life; its bloody close Hath placed thee with the sons of peace.
Among the noblest of those Who perished in the cause of right.

BUILDING BEAUTY INTO HIGHWAYS

Planting Trees Along Roadway Adds Attractiveness.

WEEDS SHOULD BE REMOVED

More Attention Should Be Given In Future to the Development of Aesthetic Possibilities of Highway Construction—Shrubbery Also is of Economic Value.

The scramble in the past to secure so called permanent roads, concrete roads, or even any roads at all, has almost entirely excluded any thought of beautifying the roadway by the planting or preserving of trees and shrubbery or by taking other steps which add to the appearance of the road. In the planning for and building of such a large mileage of highways which, as reports from all sections of the country indicate, will take place in the future, more attention should be given to the development of the aesthetic possibilities of highway construction.

What perfection has been attained in the art of road building at the present time is due to the automobile, and to the automobile may also be charged the great amount of road building activity in the nation today. Gravel roads have been bettered, and the traffic limits within which this type will prove economical have been greatly revised.
Water bound macadam roads, formerly considered the height of excellence for country road construction, have quickly yielded under the automobile traffic, and it has been found necessary to treat their surface, thereby greatly increasing the service which they are able to render. Bituminous concrete, cement concrete and brick pavements have been adapted for country roads and provide long lived, hard wearing roads well suited to the needs of both horse drawn and automobile traffic.

Few there are who do not experience a pleasurable reaction when traveling a road lined with luxuriant trees which enhance the beauty of the landscape and provide a refreshing shade from the summer's heat. Is it not for that in the present day program of road building consideration should be given to the planting of trees along the road, thus affording pleasure and comfort to the travelers of the future?

A WELL WOODED ROADWAY.

But the pleasure of trees is not the only way to beautify the roadside.
Clean, well kept cuts and ditches, sodded and free from unsightly weeds and brush, add very materially to the appearance of the turnpike. A span of years is not required to secure results, as is the case with tree planting. Attractiveness can be incorporated into the construction of the road and preserved as a part of the maintenance.
And the additional cost is slight compared with the noticeable effect upon the appearance of the road.

Beauty is economy too. The growing of trees along the public roads removes to a degree the injurious effect of the wind on earth, gravel and macadam roads. In most parts of the United States trees are desirable since they prevent the road from becoming as dry and dusty as it would without the shade which they afford. Trees or shrubbery along cuts prevent the obstruction of the road by drifting snow to a large extent. Sodded banks overgrown with grass, besides being pleasing to the eye, prevent erosion and, in sandy soils, help retain the sand in place. To secure good side drainage the ditches must be kept free from weeds and brush, thereby greatly improving the road from a practical and aesthetic standpoint.

In the future, then, with a large mil-age of scenic highways within its borders, a state may well see that its roads are its fortune. The desire of tourists seeking pleasure and entertainment in the changing landscapes will bring no inconsiderable financial return to the highest bidder for the city-fair—the section which offers the best and most attractive highways.
Thus the beautification of the highways should bring economic and direct financial returns and make the road a source of pride and joy to the community.—American City.

The Victor system of changeable needles enables you to meet every acoustic condition

A "fixed point" can't be perfect for all conditions!

If it is perfect for the ball-room it won't be perfect in the den.

If it's perfect in the den it will be inadequate in the ball-room.
If it is perfect for one music-room it will not be perfect for another music-room which is different in size, acoustic properties and furnishings.

Consequently changeable needles are best, because—in no other way can reproduced music be perfectly suited to every home and to any room in that home without in the least degree changing the artist's interpretation. That can be done only with the Victrola because of the changeable needles. It can not be done by any sound reproducing instrument which is unable to adapt itself to its own particular surroundings.

There are Victrolas in great variety of styles from $15 to $300—easy terms if desired. Come in and we'll gladly play any music you wish to hear and demonstrate the advantages of the Victor system of changeable needles.

IHC Wagons Are Tough

Did you ever notice when one of the wheels of your loaded wagon dropped into a rut or bumped over a stone how the seat springs gave and rebounded, almost throwing you off? That is an indication of the shock and strain that the rigid spokes and axles have to stand whenever the wagon is traveling over a rough road or through a field. IHC wagons

Weber New Bettendorf Columbus or Steel King take these stresses and strains as a matter of course. From neckyoke to tail board they are built of selected, air-dried lumber, strong and tough, bending to strains but coming back as straight and true as ever when the load is removed. Besides being tough, IHC wagons are light running. The wheels have just the right pitch and gather, and run true. All skains and skain boxes are paired. The running gear is assembled by skilled workmen whose wages depend as much on the quality as on the quantity of the work they turn out. Consequently, IHC wagons are practically all of the same high standard of quality throughout.

Weber and Columbus wagons have wood gears; New Bettendorf and Steel King have steel gears. To learn which IHC wagon is best suited to your work and conditions, write

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.
We are authorized to announce MAJ. HENRY H. DENHARDT of Warren County, a candidate for Congress from the Third Congressional district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held in August, D.C.

Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong.
—Stephen Decatur.

OPPOSITION TO THE WAR IS AID AND COMFORT TO GERMANY.

SWEDEN IS NOW CONSIDERING THE ADVISABILITY OF LOCKING THE STABLE DOOR.

By getting its crises in dozen lots Russia perhaps secures bargain rates.

For additional evidences of Teutonic intrigues, look anywhere on the map.

FLORA will feel better when it gets its nonalcoholic reputation on straight.

With the liberty of the country threatened this is no time for internal quarrels.

GERMANY NOW discovers that much of its plotting was done with the muffer cut out.

THAT downstate sympathetic strike is not so very sympathetic for the welfare of the nation.

CONFUSING THE ISSUES has become the chief weapon in this war of democracy's sleepless enemy.

KORNILOFF would have been a better dictator if he could have found anybody to take his dictation.

THERE comes a time when being able to shoot straight is part of the decent citizen's patriotic duty.

GERMANY'S way of discouragement strikes is to send the strikers to the front and put them in forlorn hopes.

Now is the time to talk about kings. Shoes and ships and sealing wax are likely to endure, but there will soon be no kings to talk about.

LOUD protests are always made against government investigations, but the protests are invariably loud when the investigated have something to conceal.

GERMANY'S autocracy is very kind to Germans. It does their political thinking for them and all it asks in return is to slaughter them by the million in a war of worldwide conquest.

For the love of mike, let's let our soldiers choose their own nicknames! They'll do it anyway, and they justly resent the mushy attempts of a lot of well-meaning civilians to be sentimental about a grim business.

WHAT Russia needs now is a benevolent and patriotic dictator who will not hesitate to stand traitors and potential traitors against some convenient wall and shoot them.

HIGH prices having been traced to the door of the retailer, J. Ogden Armour generously comes to the rescue and announces that the demand for excessive service by the consumer compels the retailer to exact a big profit. That settles it, we suppose. In the course of his long and dismal career the consumer has never started an investigation that did not end in his conviction as the instigator of his own misfortunes. And so long as he stands for it perhaps he deserves what he gets.

Religion And War.

They are giving Bibles to the soldiers. President Wilson approves. There are flags next the altar in churches. All of which goes to show that we have got over that wholly illogical spasm of three years ago when every one was saying "Christian nations at war? It means the end of Christianity."

It has not meant the end of Christianity. But neither has it produced the revival of religion the first few weeks of war seemed to presage. In London and Paris vice is again rampant and churches by no means thronged. Fear, which brought crowds at the beginning, has subsided. Some say that skepticism gains ground. A misure of prayer (all but the more liberal minded call it a misure) has tended to undermine faith. A man prays that his son may live, and reads his son's name next morning in the casualty list. The man across the street ridicules prayer, and his son comes home alive. In England there is a standing joke about a Tommy who said, "Bill, e' prayed like, ell an, ad, is bloomin, ead blowed ort."

Perhaps it is fortunate that war does not automatically produce revivals of religion. They seldom last. No one pretends that they last. There are those who think they do more harm than good. But this much has been made clear by the experience of warring Europe: Religion has not declined even if it has failed to achieve a brilliant advance. In certain instances, notably that of H. G. Wells, the war has awakened in the individual a profound and wholly new realization of spiritual values. Such instances are sporadic, however, and nothing thus far apparent would indicate that our American churches are going to have their work done for them by the mere upheaval and emotional turmoil of war. Conditions have changed. The net result has not.

On the whole, as we see it, the church problem is the old and difficult and at the same time fascinating problem of making human nature behave as it is not inclined to behave.
—Chicago Tribune.

The Regime of Dishonor.

Developments since President Wilson made public his reply to Pope Benedict's peace proposal add much force to this scathing declaration of the president: "We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guaranty of anything that is to endure. Unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting." Without such guaranties, he added, no treaties of settlement, no agreements of disarmament, no covenants to set up arbitration as a substitute for force, if made with the German government, could be depended upon now by any man or any nation.

The government that permitted its agent to make secret use of the diplomatic representatives of a supposedly neutral power, Sweden, to advise the destruction of the property and lives of citizens, not of an enemy country, but of Argentina, with which the relations of Germany were outwardly friendly, is beyond the pale of civilization. The latter disclosure of the moral turpitude of the German ambassador in Mexico is of the same general nature.

President Wilson is right. The word of the present rulers of Germany cannot be taken on guaranties of enduring peace unless supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting.

The Menace of Royalty.

In earlier periods of the history of the world kings and queens in many cases may have served useful purposes. In the present stage of world development, however, royalty at best is an expensive luxury. The best monarchs are those who function only in ceremonial capacities, leaving to chosen representatives of the people all the real powers of government. Such monarchies, of which that of Great Britain is the most conspicuous example, have social uses and help to connect the present with the past in a way that is considered helpful by some. But the pomp which they supply is very costly and cannot be considered worth the price by lovers of democracy.

Wherever hereditary monarchs exercise real powers of government they are a constant menace to free institutions. The government of Sweden is a limited monarchy. The king exercises powers of importance, though he is subject to far greater control by the Swedish parliamentary body than is the German emperor or by the reichstag.

The great majority of the people of Sweden are democratic in their instincts and in sympathy with world movements for democracy. But the royalty of Sweden and the Swedish junkers uphold autocracy wherever it is und-rattack. The support given the German government by the royal house of Sweden is due in part, one must think, to the fact that the consort of the king of Sweden is a German princess. In this case, as in that of Greece, the royal family's kinship with German royalty has been an important factor in influencing the attitude of the government against the wishes and the best interest of the people.

Sweden has nothing to gain from the pro-German attitude of the royal household. On the contrary, its welfare is seriously endangered by that attitude. The Swedish people have been ill served in this respect.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, an All-Wise Providence has removed from this school and from our friend and classmate, Hallie Brown, who was a young woman with lovable and attractive ways, and who was admired by all, and whose absence from our class has caused us a great sorrow; therefore be it resolved:

1. That we extend to the saddened parents and brother our sympathy and affection to tell them we share their loss.

2. That we emulate the pleasant manners and cheerful disposition of our classmate.

3. That we cherish the virtues and worthy habits of our classmate, and keep alive the good influence she exerted here.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent the parents' brother, and also be sent to each of the county papers.

Victor records are recognized as supreme, since every machine made is fitted to play them. The real way is to play Victor records on Victor machines, for best results. Let Roark demonstrate for you.

Uncle Sam Talks.

Of late there has been going the rounds of the country various rumors to the effect that the Government intended taking canned and dried foods intended for home use. These rumors received their death-blow when the Department of Agriculture issued the following statement: "The Food Administration and the Department of Agriculture both state emphatically that the Government never had contemplated commandeering home stocks of any kind, but rather is doing everything possible to encourage home conservation of surplus fruits and vegetables so that households may have abundant supplies for their own consumption."

You are in to win if you get a Victrola. Let Roark tell and show you how and why.

Aids to Patriotism.

The four following suggestions have been put forward as an aid to arousing patriotism: First—A ten minute address at chapel hour in the schools including the pledge to the flag and the singing of one of the national hymns. Second—The use of the mid-week service in all churches for individual expression of patriotism. Third—A patriotic ten minutes with salute to the flag in all Sunday schools. Fourth—A Sunday night Patriotic Service in all churches except in small towns, where a union service is held in the afternoon. A liberal use of flags and processions where it is possible.

Look Home.

From mountain and from sea resort the tourist are returning and they have freckles by the quart, and sunburn fiercely burning. No doubt you gambled with the rest, where sylvan torrent gushes, where little robins build their nest, and sparrows chase the thrushes. No doubt you're full of thrilling yarns, that you desire to tell us, of ocean waves or mountain tarns—which tales will make us jealous. But have you brought back nothing more than rather idle stories of basking by the brin'ys shore, or 'mid the forest's glories? Have you brought back a lot of pep for your employer's service or have you still a lagging step, and are you stale and nervous? Have you brought back new vim and zeal from all your rural scouting? Unless you have, I surley feel, you've had a useless outing. Have you brought back a glad desire to quit your lazy nodding, and labor like a house afire, and set the boss applauding? If you still hunt the easy chair in which we've oft surveyed you, your tan won't get you anywhere, your freckles will not aid you.
WALT MASON.

This Best-known World Trade Mark holds this honorable distinction because it represents the highest type of artistic production ever offered the buyer. No other concern, in any line, has won the high place so universally accorded the Victor Talking Machine Co. by artists from all over the world. And their sales are only limited by their output, which, enormous as it is, has never yet equalled the demand. Let us show you why.

THE KILTIES.

Whist, man, an auld familiar sound comes shripping on the breeze, That last I heard by fair Loch Lomond's shore.

It sends the shivers up ma back, it mak's ma cheekbones freeze.
Eh, lad, if I were young and strong once more!

Whist, man, just hear the cency lads a-pipin as they come, One bare knee flash, the sporran swing together.

It mak's ma auld heart swell to watch ye lang lad beat the drum, It takes me back to Scotland and the heather.

Whist, man, can ye no hear the word the pipes ha' come to tell?
"Scotland Forever! Up, and grip the tuns."

The pibroch sounds, the claymores flash.
We'll fight our way thru Hell, For Caledon is calling to her sons.

Muhlenberg Soldier Boys Leave for Camp Zachary Taylor.

Eighty-six men, the first contin-gent of Muhlenberg county's quota for the new National army, left here on a special train at 1:32 p. m. yesterday for Camp Zachary Taylor, at Louisville, beginning the first lap of their journey which is destined, as events now stand, to bring them in time to the fighting lines in France.

That the very best wishes of every patriotic man, woman and child in Muhlenberg county goes with these men was amply demonstrated yesterday. The town was gaily decorated with bunting and American flags, while here and there the flags of the Allies were displayed. The entire contingent was served dinner at the Old Inn. The men were assembled at the court house at 12:30 and automobiles were furnished to carry them to the station. A large crowd was present when the train came in, on hand to wish the boys pianos are tuned to international superior quality which has gained the international place of honor which they have attained. See, try and hear them at Roark's.

A card was received a few days ago by Mr. O. L. Roark from Mr.
James W. Oates, who is with a regiment of engineers "somewhere in England." He says that he is well pleased with the service and is having a great time.

A man reports that he visited every store in town one morning this week and was unable to buy a piece of breakfast bacon—and he had the money, too. This seems to argue that breakfast bacon is becoming so valuable that no merchant dares keep a supply of it on hand, unless he has a double locked vault in which to store it.

How Mandolin Tail Pieces Make Pianos Less Costly

THE packers prove by actual figures that sandpaper and soap and other inedible products reduce the cost of beefsteak. Armour states that a steer for which he pays $76.10 is sold, as far as meat is concerned, for $67.90, or $8.20 less than cost. Utilization of by-products furnishes the explanation.

Lyon & Healy make or sell everything known in music; therefore, overhead expense, the fixed cost of doing business, is divided among thousands of items.

General salaries, for instance, are not charged against the Piano Department, but against all the various divisions of the house.
Lyon & Healy Pianos have to pay only a trifle towards items of this kind compared with the charge which must be borne by other pianos.

Let us look for a moment in the Lyon & Healy factory. While this enormous building and plant is devoted in a large part to piano making, there is no corner of it which is not used.

Here is a wing of the building devoted to making the Lyon & Healy Harp, which is the standard of the world—and sold all over the globe. Another section is occupied by Brass Instrument makers. Still another division is working on Piano Makers' Tools.

Nearby is a department filled with Mandolin makers. And in an adjoining space there are thousands of Piano Benches in course of construction.

The Lyon & Healy Piano, which retails for $....., and the Lyon & Healy-made Washburn Piano, which retails for $....., have attained such widespread popularity that they are in a class by themselves.

These instruments could not be offered to the public at these figures were it not for the Lyon & Healy organization.

They are the product of not only the finest daylight factory in America, but also of an all-round organization which leads in many different lines of musical merchandise.

Sales of Talking Machines running into large figures, wholesale and retail; sales of sheet music, wholesale and retail, unrivaled in the United States; sales of fine Violins; sales of everything known in music; all reduce the cost of Lyon & Healy Pianos.

Music lovers are invited to avail themselves of this indubitable advantage.

Every Pig Will Mean $50

When the 12c hog was predicted, many were skeptical.

When the 15c hog was predicted they were still more skeptical.

Now that they have seen the 15c hog a reality, they do not laugh when some enthusiastic hog man talks about 20c hogs. Instead they shiver in their boots and wonder where the money is coming from to buy the material that will make that delicious sugar-cured ham, and appetizing breakfast bacon.

They holler and yell about the high cost of living and agitate government control of food prices, call the farmer a crook and horsethief—then hustle over to the nearest garage and pay a twenty per cent advanced price for an automobile —all it up with John D.'s Elixir of Life at twenty-five or thirty cents a gallon—strap on a couple of spare tires at $50 each that could be bought last year for half the money, and never bat an eye, and for supper they will cut themselves down to one pork chop.

Now don't let them scare you. The law of supply and demand always has regulated the price of commodities and always will.

The whole situation in a nutshell is—the supply of hogs is a minus quantity, and they are going to get higher, and higher in price.

Every well-grown pig late this fall, or along in the winter, will net his owner $50 right over the scales.

AUTO ROADS IN NATIONAL DEFENSE

Highways Near Coasts of Greatest Benefit.

CARRIERS FOR AMMUNITION

Roads to Be of Military Value Should Be Constructed Everywhere That a Considerable Population, Agricultural, Manufacturing, Trading or Mining, Has Its Habitation.

Numerous instances might be cited to show the effect roads or their absence had on campaigns in the civil war, although their importance was infinitely less than now, when the automobile threatens to drive even the world famous army into oblivion. Major A. A. Pries, U. S. A., in the New York World, writes: "The automobile, with its speed and carrying power, and the wonderful flexibility of an army using it that make roads so vitally important in war today. A railroad must be provided with side tracks, turntables and yards, and for a huge business such as war, must be very large and take time and great quantities of material in building. Not so with automobiles, where every foot of a highway, unless in a deep cut or all in a side track, where machines may unload and turn around. Further, in dry weather almost any field can be used for unloading and loading the machines so as not to congest the roads at the place where men and materials are needed.

The answer to the question where roads should be constructed to be of military value is—everywhere that a considerable population—agricultural, manufacturing, trading or mining—exists. In any great war we shall have to marshal all of our resources, just as the European nations are doing at the present time. Every product of our soil or factories will be called upon for use, and roads will be required on which to carry them to the places where needed. Fine roads along our coasts and land boundaries will be of the most immediate benefit and should be of the best and widest since they will have to bear the heaviest and most concentrated traffic. There are a number of roads proposed or actually under construction that come under this head. Such are the Pacific highway, along or near the Pacific coast from Seattle to San Diego; the Yellowstone trail, along the northern boundary from the vicinity of the great lakes to the Columbia river, and the Lincoln highway across the north central part of the United States.

While the roads intended primarily for military purposes should be located near our boundaries, they must not be so near that they can be easily raided or captured by small bodies of the enemy and thus likely to be of use only to him and not to us. All roads farther inland and parallel to the border roads will be of very great value as feeders to those nearer the borders. Along these interior roads men and supplies may be moved long distances without fear of interruption or observation by the enemy and thus contribute greatly to the element of surprise so essential to victory in nearly all cases. There must be crossroads at reasonably close intervals to enable the traffic on interior lines to leave them and cross to those places near the border where needed.

During mobilization and the early stages of the war there will be many rapid movements of large bodies of troops. Here roads and automobiles will be deciding factors, for, as every body knows from the progress of the war in Europe, the one who gets the start has an enormous advantage that will cost the other side many times the original loss to overcome. Later in the beginning of a campaign, when movements are rapid and there is little opportunity to intrench, three inch guns and shrapnel will be very largely used, but just as soon as there is time to intrench there will be an opportunity for the larger guns to come up to fire high explosive shells to drive the enemy out of his intrenched positions. This is called the second or trench warfare stage of the campaign, when hundreds of thousands of rounds of high explosive shells will be required for every twenty-five miles of battle front. In all these operations the number of automobiles required will be tremendous, but with the vast number in general use and being manufactured every day it is inconceivable that there ever will be a shortage after the first confusion is over.

Road Improvement and Land Value. The influence of road improvements on the value of rural property was described in a letter recently sent to the Manufacturers' Record by the president of the Baltimore Commercial bank, who wrote: "Around my home town in Virginia property could be bought three years ago for $50 to $50 an acre. We put a fine road several miles through that country, and today you cannot buy anything for less than $100, and some is held at $150 per acre."

Nearly $2,000,000 From Autos. The license tax during the first year of operation under a horsepower and weight scale will net Michigan $1,700,000, according to present indications. At the close of business Nov. 1 the secretary of state had received $1,720,000.

STEWED PRUNES AND KUMQUATS.—Six kumquats, a cupful of soaked and stoned prunes, sugar to taste, half a cupful of water. Prepare prunes by soaking them until plump in cold water to cover. Drain and pit. To prunes add kumquats sliced thin and half a cupful of water in which the prunes have been soaked. Simmer gently for a few minutes, then add sugar. Cook slowly until kumquats are tender. Unless cooked very gently they will go to pieces.

Apple Slump.—A quart of apples, half a cupful of sugar, a cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, a quarter teaspoonful of salt, an egg, half a cupful of milk, a tablespoonful of butter. Wash and pare the apples, cut into slices, brush with butter, cover with the dough. Place in moderate oven and bake thirty minutes, loosen sides and turn out on plate, dough side down. Serve with warm milk or cream. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into bowl; add the milk and well beaten egg, mix well and add the melted butter. Pour over apples.

Pineapple Nests.—Shred a good flavored pineapple and form into nests on lettuce leaves. Fill the nests with peeled and seeded Malaga grapes, dress each with a spoonful of mayonnaise and a cherry on top.

Baked Pineapple.—Drain the juice from a can of sliced pineapple, place on stove with a cupful of sugar and let come to a boil. In a baking dish place a layer of pineapple and a layer of fine bread-crumbs, alternately, until the pineapple has been used. Place bits of butter over the top and pour over all the hot syrup. Bake in the oven for thirty minutes. This is very fine served with chicken.

Fruit Cocktail.—Two oranges, one grapefruit, a few white grapes. Cut in small pieces, cover with sugar and let stand to form plenty of juice. Serve very cold in glasses garnished with red and green cherries.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

APPETIZING MEATS.

BEFSTEAK PIE.—Cut remnants of cold boiled steak or roast beef in one inch cubes; then cover with boiling water, add one-half onion and cook slowly one hour. Remove onion, thicken gravy with flour diluted with cold water and season with salt and pepper. Add potatoes cut in one-fourth inch slices which have been parboiled eight minutes in boiling salted water. Put in a buttered pudding dish, cool, cover with baking powder biscuit mixture or pie crust. Bake in a hot oven. If covered with pie crust make several incisions in crust that gases may escape.

Bargain Croquettes.—One cupful cold roast beef finely chopped, salt and pepper, onion juice, table sauce, two tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful melted butter and yolk of one egg, slightly beaten. Season beef with salt, pepper, onion juice and table sauce. Add remaining ingredients; shape after the form of small croquettes, pointed at ends. Roll in flour, egg and crumbs, fry in deep fat, drain and serve with tomato sauce and hot biscuit.

Italian Beef.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan and add one onion sliced thin. Cook until browned, then add one and one-half cupfuls of stewed canned tomatoes and let boil slowly for fifteen minutes or until slightly thickened. Add one and one-half cans of cooked macaroni and bring to a boil. Just before serving add two cupfuls of left over roast beef cut fine. Heat through, but do not boil. Serve at once.

Tressed Meat.—Purchase any desired amount of flank or rib meat, wash, place in a kettle, cover with water and boil until very tender; when done drain, remove the bones and skin and pack in a dish where it can be pressed by weighting the cover. When cold slice and serve.

Fillet of Beef.—Wipe, remove fat, veins and any tendinous portions; skewer in shape and lard upper side with grain of meat (if you do not wish to take trouble to lard fillet your butcher will do it for you). Place on a rack in a small pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and put in bottom of pan small pieces of pork. Bake twenty to thirty minutes in hot oven, basting three times. Take out skewer, remove to hot platter and garnish with watercress. Serve with mushrooms or horseradish sauce.

GRADUAL CHANGE IN FEEDING

When Turning Cows on Fresh Pasture Grain Supply Should Be Continued for Short Period.

The practical dairyman has learned that any radical change in the winter feed of his cows should be made gradually if the milk flow is not to suffer. He is most likely to overlook the effects of turning his cows out to the fresh spring pastures.

Experiments which the Missouri college of agriculture has conducted have shown that a sudden change to pasture in the spring is likely to cause the cows to be underfed for several days. These fresh pastures are succulent, their water content is very high, and the cows are not accustomed to depend on their own activity for the food necessary for their milk. One of the results of this underfeeding, which is practically likely to occur with heavy or moderately heavy producers, will be a drop in the milk flow. It is difficult to raise this flow after it has once dropped, especially if it has been some time since the animals have freshened. This underfeeding will also affect the composition of the butterfat.

It is important that all changes of feed of dairy cows, including the change to fresh pasture should be made gradually, and good milk-producing animals should be fed some grain in addition to the pasture. This will prevent the possibility of underfeeding. The grain feeding should be continued after the pastures become mature and the cows become accustomed to graze for their food.

DISEASE OF IRISH POTATOES

Scab, Most Common Trouble, Can Be Almost Eliminated by Soaking Seed in Formaldehyde.

One of the most common diseases of any field crop is the scab of the Irish potato. This disease can be almost eliminated by soaking the planting seed in formaldehyde, and planting in ground that is free from the disease. The formaldehyde may be obtained at any drug store. Mix one pint of the substance 40 per cent with 30 gallons water. Before cutting the potato and just before you are ready to plant soak them in this solution for one and one-half to two hours. Do not let potatoes come in contact with sacks which have contained diseased potatoes. All of the potatoes should be soaked immediately as the solution loses strength if allowed to stand several days. It is so little trouble to soak potatoes in this solution that it is utterly foolish to plant them without soaking.

FATTENING FEED FOR STEERS

Result of Experiment Conducted by Iowa State College—Increased Gains by Using Silage.

Silage has opened the fattening ration for steers. In an experiment conducted by the Iowa State college, one lot, receiving each per day 57 pounds shelled corn, 20 pounds silage, two pounds of meal and one and a half pounds alfalfa, made gains at a cost of $9.57 while another lot receiving ing eight and a half pounds corn, 51 pounds silage, two pounds oil meal and one and a half pounds alfalfa, made gains at a cost of $7.67. The first lot averaged 2.94 pounds gain per day while the second lot averaged 3.04 pounds. Reducing the corn and increasing the ensilage increased the gains and cut down the cost of making the gains.

PIGEON IS NOT DESTRUCTIVE

Beaks Are Not Made to Dig With and Feet Are Not Fit for Scratching—Pick Up Weeds.

Pigeons are not destructive to gardens, as is commonly believed. Their beaks are not like that of the crow, to enable them to dig with, nor have they feet like chickens to scratch with.

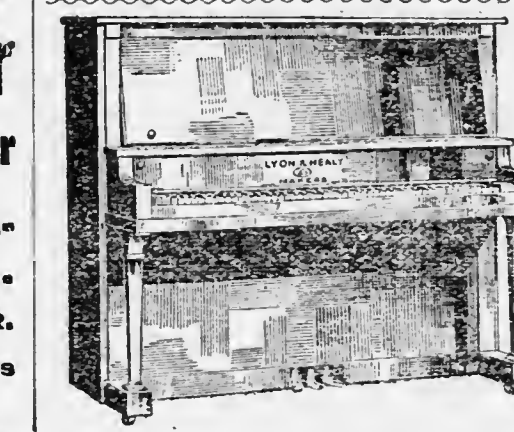

Pigeons simply walk over the surface of the ground and pick up what is in plain sight, which consists principally of weed seeds.

ORCHARDS CLOSE TO HOUSES

Receive Better Care and Attention From Owner Than Those at Some Distance Away.

Orchards close to the house receive better care and attention, for their needs are before the owner all of the time.

They are protected from prowlers, which is an important consideration of those living close to towns or cities.

GREENVILLE, KENTUCKY

A History of Muhlenberg County

BY OTTO A. ROTHERT

THE book tells of the wilderness conquered, and of the adventures of the men and women who founded and developed the county up to and since the beginning of the railroad era, and made possible the achievements of to-day. It is the story of the county from the standpoint of its personal and public traditions, which have been arranged in related groups and form an almost continuous narrative.

It was published in 1913. Competent judges have pronounced it the best county history ever published in the United States. The Courier-Journal says, "The book is worthy of study, not only for the pictures it gives of early times and early society, but for the wealth of its curious and valuable illustrations and its expositions of the industrial and social progress of the county and its towns." The Western Recorder says, "It is more interesting than a good novel; it will interest old and young alike." The Greenville Record says, "Every Muhlenberger and former citizen of the county will value the book far above the price at which it is offered." The American Historical Review says, "The book not only contains much that is of interest to the student of Kentucky history but is written in a pleasing style."

It is a labor of love offered at cost of production, the author's time and work being contributed. The book contains 500 pages, 240 excellent illustrations and a complete index. It is printed on a superior quality of paper and is handsomely bound in dark red cloth.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak. I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few doses. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon righted with a few doses of Black-Draught."

Seventy years of successful use has made Thedford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in cleansing the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lazy liver, etc. You cannot keep well unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working-order.
